Experience at first hand the unique nature (topography) of the Soya Hills.

The Soya Hills, where gentle green undulations extend as far as the eye can see, were created approximately 10,000 years ago due to repeated freezing and thawing during the Ice Age. The trees were destroyed in a forest fire during the Meiji Period, to reveal beautiful terrain conceived by ancient dramas.

TOPICS

The Periglacial Landform of the Soya Hills

The gentle wave-like terrain, formed approximately 10,000 years ago by the repeated freezing and thawing of the soil, was designated as a Hokkaido Heritage in 2004.
